Mr. James J. Dowd

A Man Dedicated To High

DEDICATION

In the autumn of 1957, our paths first crossed. Since that time, we, the Class of 1961, have come to realize and appreciate all that Mr. Dowd has done, not only for our class, but for every phase of school life. With all the numerous and important responsibilities he has, he still finds the time to take a personal interest in every club, organization, sport, and activity of the students of Sharon High.

Since that day in September, Sharon High School has grown in stature, has gained much dignity, and has achieved many honors. School spirit has risen and school pride has increased. The students themselves have acquired a new sense of dignity and respect.

Space does not allow us to list every individual thank you, but we hope that this dedication will express in a small way the gratitude of all of us, the entire student body of Sharon High School. To you, therefore, Mr. Dowd, we dedicate this our Marsengold of 1961.

Quality and Scholarship

HOW SWIFTLY PASS THE SEASONS

FOREWORD

The calendar year contains four seasons; but the school year is made up of only three—fall, winter, and spring. Each autumn we return to school with hopeful plans for a year of learning and enjoying. Winter finds us intently involved in our academic studies and extra-curricular work. And with spring, the close of the year, comes a sense of satisfaction and accomplishment. Because our activities and schoolwork occupy these seasons, we have chosen them for the theme of our Marsengold. We hope that this book will be kept as a chronological record of the fall, winter, and spring of the school year, 1960-1961.

Every graduating class has many memories, and certainly those of the faculty are prominent among them. The teachers are not only interested in their subjects, but also in their students as people. Individuals among them have made deep impressions on the minds of many students and have greatly influenced their choices of careers. The Sharon faculty makes the school.

In the past, modern foreign language departments have striven to acquire proficiency in reading. It is now apparent, however, that we must be able to meet other peoples of the world on their own ground. The objectives, therefore, have been broadened to include speaking and understanding the language. To reach these ends, a direct method French course has been introduced at the ninth grade level and language laboratory equipment has been purchased.

Beginning courses in Latin stress the development of logical thought and the importance of correct study habits. Advanced Latin concentrates on the influence of Latin culture upon English literature as well as English vocabulary. The course in Cicero emphasizes the relationship between ancient Rome and modern politics.

Students find excellent source material in the library.

Today's English student benefits from a new outlook in his literature program and in his writing instruction. Though still interested in the traditional learning of titles and authors, he devotes much time to learning and refining his reading skills, thus providing himself with keys to the great ideas. It is in these ideas that he sees the common ground of all the feelings and actions of all men. In learning to express his ideas he has frequent opportunity to write long themes as formerly, but now he develops writing effectiveness by mastering the discipline of the single paragraph. The library, an indispensable adjunct to his English program, aids him in his quest for the liberation that ideas and power to express them bring.

The band and orchestra, together with the sports and dance bands, present a varied instrumental program. The vocal music program includes three glee club groups who study both classical and contemporary compositions. Instruction in art is offered to all interested students through the art club which provides an opportunity for experience in the use of various art media.

The Physical Education Program offers active participation in a well-rounded program of physical development and recreational activities. Instruction is designed to develop neuro-muscular skills, strength, and endurance, as well as fundamental athletic skills. Emphasis is placed on teamwork, respect for others, leadership, sportsmanship, and good health habits. Voluntary individual and team activities are provided by the intramural program.

Weight lifting is included in the gym program to develop physical fitness.

The program of social studies is intended to develop the skills and competency necessary for informed and active citizenship.

The two-year United States History and Government course now replaces the program of one year of history and one year of Problems of American Democracy. This provides the students with an opportunity for a more thorough study of the history of the country together with the philosophy and structure of our governmental system.

A four-year program of Ancient, Modern and United States History and Government is required of all pupils following a program for post-secondary preparation. There is also a four-year sequence of Civics, Economic Geography, United States History, and Problems of American Democracy for all terminal pupils.

Through the subjects studied in sequence in the Commercial Department, pupils are given an opportunity to develop marketable skills. Vocational competence is an important aim in typewriting, stenography, book-keeping, and their allied subjects.

Instruction in industrial arts and related subjects, such as mechanical drawing and shop math, is intended to develop a knowledge of, and skills in, the use of machine tools in woodworking and metal working. The development of this competence is intended to have a vocational, as well as an avocational, value.

The courses in home economics provide an opportunity for the girls to develop skills in the preparation and serving of foods, and competence in the various areas of sewing.

Students in typing class take speed test.

Recent developments in the fields of instruction in mathematics and science have resulted in changes in curricular structure as well as course content in these areas. We now offer four years of mathematics beyond Algebra I, and a four-year science program beyond General Science.

Though these sequences allow for advanced studies, they are not now organized along the lines of the formal Advanced Placement Service. The new structure provides to pupils with special abilities and interests in the fields of Mathematics and Science, opportunities for advanced or concentrated study in the secondary program. The traditional sequences, with interest modified in the light of recent changes, are still offered in the regular preparation for the terminal pupils.

Fall—the start of the school year, election of new club officers, senior play, soccer games. These are a few of the activities which stand out in the fall calendar.

Everyone, bursting with enthusiasm, is anxious to take part in at least one of the fall activities, which, in no time, are moving along at a rapid pace. Senior play rehearsals and Marsengold staff meetings have top priority on the afternoon hours of many seniors. At the same time, the Eagle staff is working hard to make sure that the first edition of the school newspaper is the best yet. Meanwhile, the library staff is busy organizing its roster of assistants to work at the charge desk.

As some students are industriously working inside the school, outside, a large percentage of the boys are withstanding exhaustive exercises in the hope that they may be chosen for the soccer team.

Thus, while the soccer season and the production of the senior play are the high lights of the fall season, it is also the period of organization and preparation of ground work for the later events in many groups.

FALL

Student Council Membership

This year the Student Council of Sharon High School, consisting of a representative from each of the twenty-four homerooms and the vice-president of each class, has met weekly under the direction of president Edward Keane and faculty advisor Mr. Liberman. Besides working in the supply room, the members served on separate committees revising the constitution and compiling a scrapbook and a school handbook.

Council supply room does increasing business.

The Student Council of 1960-1961 has had a busy calendar throughout the school year. As the first fall meetings were called to order, business—such as dress regulations for dances and school functions, distribution of student identification cards and a formation of a roster of student greeters—was brought to the floor.

During the winter and basketball season, the Council sponsored the Christmas Drawing Contest and sold candy at the boys' games.

As we go to press, the members are planning for a scholarship dance in April; and in May, they will supervise the important elections of class officers for next year.

Throughout the year, the Council's most important function has been maintaining liaison between the students and faculty.

Large Number Added To Eagle Staff

"Editors, check assignments," is the call, as a new paper begins to formulate. This year the staff has been encouraged to produce excellent issues with Nancy Shuman as editor-in-chief and Laurie Wax as junior editor. The feature writers add spark to each copy, while the news reporters give informative accounts of current happenings. As evidenced by the clamoring throng of students who greet each new issue, the Eagle has successfully reflected the spirit of Sharon High School through its coverage of both the special events and the everyday occurrences which make up our school life.

Work Of Librarians Increases

"Get in line for reserved books," calls the girl at the desk as the students stream into the library.

As well as collecting passes, the members of the library club, under the supervision of Miss Marion Clark, check and reshelve books and aid in arranging seasonal displays.

Meetings are held every three weeks at which the members learn interesting details about library work and learn the responsibilities involved in keeping a neat and useful school library.

It may be that their experience in the club will encourage them to pursue their library interests in college and throughout life.

VOCAL MUSIC GROUPS

The harmonious sounds which filled the music area during lab periods on Tuesdays and Fridays often rose from the Glee Club, meeting under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Edwards. This year, besides the Glee Club, the vocal music program also included a Girls' Chorus. The quality of performances, such as the Winter Assembly, has been outstanding this year. Among the many worthwhile activities conducted during the past year by the Glee Club and Girls' Chorus were the annual Thanksgiving Interfaith Service and participation in the District Chorus.

Hustling Soccer Team Unbeaten

The boys dashed eagerly down the field in pursuit of the bouncing soccer ball and victoriously booted it over the goal line. Another game won!

The long grueling hours spent practicing old and new skills and doing calisthenics paid off; for, again this year, our soccer team, under the leadership of Coach Blanchon, won the South Shore Soccer Association Championship. Congratulations, team, for a wonderful and successful year!

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS CLUB

Just before the curtains open, a cry of panic goes up backstage. "The mike won't work; call Steve!" In like manner, Steve, Kenny, or any other member of the Audio-Visual Aids Club, is often called upon to step into the breach in emergencies.

As well as providing the electrical equipment for many extra activities occurring after school in the auditorium, the members of the club operate the opaque and motion picture projectors needed in our classes and assemblies. New members are instructed in the use of the machines by Mr. Marcus, Advisor, and the experienced members of the club.

The membership drive in November, visits to the Wrentham State Hospital, Norwood Hospital, and Canton Children's Hospital, and variety shows at the Canton Children's Hospital were only a small part of the program completed by the Junior Red Cross Club this year. Instruction in first-aid and life-saving techniques was given to members of the club during some of the weekly meetings.

CREATIVE WRITING CLUB

The Creative Writing Club members, under the direction of Mrs. Katherine Norwood, learn the elements of good writing and put them to practice. The high light of their literary efforts is the publication of an annual magazine, the Quill. There is satisfaction in polishing a piece of writing for publication.

MARSENGOLD

To blend perfectly all the ingredients necessary to create a book was the goal of the Marsengold staff. More specifically, this goal was to produce a book that would mirror Sharon High School and serve as an example of the school's finest work and proudest achievements.

From early fall, when the Business Staff first began its work, to early spring, when the last Literary Staff assignments were completed and the last photographs taken, the staff members concentrated their efforts to make Marsengold 1961 the best yearbook ever. This undertaking, although exacting and time-consuming, proved to be enjoyable. The thorough canvassing of Sharon and surrounding towns for advertisements made the financial end of the book an enormous success. The writers busied themselves producing copy about the various school activities, writing up features, and composing character sketches of their classmates, while the Co-editors strove to design the most attractive page layouts.

Finally, on March 15, after months of inspiration and work on the part of the entire staff, the completed book was sent to the printer.

Smash Hit As Ghosts Run Loose

A darkened auditorium set the atmosphere for the entrance of Revolutionary War apparitions as the curtain rose on Gramercy Ghost, class play of 1961. Although the fantasy lasted only two hours, it represented five weeks of diligent work for Mr. Newton, the cast and crew. Rehearsals were called for afternoons and evenings on school days in addition to several on week-ends and vacation days. Behind the scenes, many seniors constructed sets, created costumes, and gathered props, while others got out publicity and sold tickets. However, the hard work was certainly profitable, as was seen at the commendable performance given on November 18, 1960.

Who threw this bottle?

School is running in high gear by the time winter arrives. The clubs have been organized, classes established, report cards issued, and the study time of certain disgruntled students doubled. The library staff has learned to work efficiently; the debating team has decided on its topic and is busy challenging other schools. The band has played for three assemblies, and, of course, the literary staff of the yearbook has begun meeting almost daily. In February, new members to the National Honor Society are tapped.

"Victory, victory, is our cry! V-I-C-T-O-R-Y!" Twice weekly stimulating cheers are heard at the basketball games. The pep rally before the first game is perhaps the most anticipated event of the season. With sports, clubs, and homework, Sharon students are well occupied throughout the winter.

The National Honor Society is made up of students who have established outstanding records in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. An average of B is the scholastic requirement, although membership can not be gained on the basis of scholarship alone.

This year the society has concentrated on two objectives: to make students more aware of each individual quality and to be of service to the students. To fulfill their first aim, they have established awards to be presented to students who have excelled in any one of these areas. These awards are entirely separate from membership in the society. To increase their service to the school, they have assumed the responsibility of Bible readings at assemblies and they have established a semi-tutorial system.

On February 10, eighteen Juniors and three Seniors, having met these high standards in all four areas, were tapped and then inducted into the society in an impressive candle-lighting ceremony.

Last year, the Sharon Debating Club was privileged to be granted membership in the National Forensic League, an honor society for debaters. This membership provides the individuals of the club with the incentive to participate in debates in order to qualify for admission.

Traveling to other New England states, the Varsity Team has a very full schedule, meeting and challenging other debaters. At present, Mr. Foley, the advisor, is working to broaden the program for non-varsity members of the club as well.

Through membership in the Debating Club, the students learn to think quickly under pressure and to articulate their thoughts. Since outstanding political figures must possess the qualities of a good debater, it is possible that Sharon High School is laying the groundwork for a future statesman.

"Aren't they tremendous?"

"Wasn't it heavenly?"

These were the comments on everyone's lips at the end of the performance by the Dance Band last year. Playing "Laura," "Night Train," and other selections, the members of the band captivated the students.

Because of infrequent practices, the Band has not yet been able to play this year. However, as we go to press, they promise another performance.

Sports Band Adds Color To Games

Lending its spirit and enthusiasm to the basketball games is Sharon High School's Sports Band. Under the able direction of Merry Lou Ahnberg, the members of the band meet every Thursday to learn peppy marches and rousing collegiate songs and to rehearse the old high school favorites. The band plays such songs as "Copa Cabana," "Air Force Blues," "Thunderer," and "North Woods." Dressed in their bright red sweaters, the sports band not only promotes enthusiasm but also provides a colorful background for the home games.

Girls' Varsity Club Members Perform

Throughout the year the Girls' Varsity Club has taken part in all phases of high school activities. They participated in intramural sports by officiating at basketball, volleyball, and badminton games. They promoted school spirit at soccer games by selling rah-rah sticks and added to the enthusiasm at basketball games with the sale of Sharon pins, potato chips, and candy. They aided the students in complying with the school rule which requires that books be covered by selling Sharon High School book covers each morning. They performed a service to the community by holding their annual car wash in the spring. The funds from these activities were used toward the payment of varsity jackets, cheerleading uniforms, and donations to the student activity scholarship.

The Boys Varsity Club promotes good sportsmanship and sponsors many school activities. Each year it organizes a talent show, bringing forth talent that would otherwise go unrecognized. By performing on the apparatus and presenting humorous skits, it supports the Pep Rally, which strengthens school spirit and focuses student attention on basketball. Throughout the year, the members officiate at intramural games and coach these teams. To raise money they hold cake sales and sell cokes at basketball games; each year they donate a large sum to the scholarship fund. To become a member, each boy must earn a letter. Senior members receive jackets, and all receive pins. A trophy is given to the best all-around athlete and the best all-around sportsman.

The performances of the Gymnastics Clubs could best be described as exhilarating and breathtaking. Demonstrations on the parallel bars, the horse, the rings and the ropes, together with the precise coordination of dramatic feats performed in rhythm to musical selections, never fail to leave spectators amazed.

Arduous practice sessions, held after school hours and many times during weekends and vacation time, account for the polished skills of the boys and girls. Always, in Sharon High School, the sport which has received the most enthusiastic response has been basketball. And this year has been no exception, the Eagles having earned the ardent support of the students. With a season's record of eleven wins and four losses, the team qualified for both the South Shore and Tech Tournaments. Team work marked every game. Chuck Sweetman, Clyde Cowley, Paul Jones, Bob Keeling, Don Chase, and Joe Quin, the starters, worked together to roll up the scores. But most important, both the varsity and junior varsity teams displayed good sportsmanship and an earnest desire to win.

The Gladiators began a successful season by trouncing the Alumnae with a score of 34 to 27. Proceeding to win more than half their games, the girls proved that the first battle was a fair sampling of the spirited enthusiasm with which they were to confront the teams of the Hockomock League. Highlighting the season, the girls downed Stoughton 47 to 32 after three years of unsuccessful attempts.

Under the expert guidance of Miss Jewett, both junior varsity and varsity teams succeeded in displaying well-organized teamwork and in exercising good sportsmanship.

Spring arrives and everyone's thoughts turn to the outdoors. On the first warm day, the school diamonds and tennis courts are filled with students anxious to begin baseball, softball, and tennis practice. Track and golf stars are at work in preparation for competition with other schools.

Indoors, the orchestra and band are busily combining their efforts in readiness for the annual spring concert, while the Art Club puts the finishing touches to its exhibit of original works to be displayed on that night. At the same time, the members of the Dramatics Club, hosts this year to the Drama Festival Regional Contests, are meeting daily in committees to make a multitude of final arrangements.

And above all, the Juniors are absorbed in preparations for the biggest social function of the year, the Junior Prom.

Soon the year will end and summer vacation will begin. But, the excitement and mixed emotions of graduation will overshadow all else in the minds of the Seniors.

TRACK

As spring arrives, the playground becomes the scene of afternoon Track Team practices. Broad jumpers, high jumpers, pole vaulters, runners, and shot put and discus throwers may be seen in panorama across the field.

Last season, the team placed fourth in Hockomock League competition with a record of five wins and three second places in meets. At the Class D statewide track meet, the team finished ninth out of thirty-six schools. Also, last season, Phillip Baker was Class D champion in the javelin.

Mr. Joseph Courteau, who has been coach for several years, has emphasized the importance of good sportsmanship in all activities as well as good proficiency.

Before the snow is off the ground and the brooks have thawed, the tennis team has started practicing. The first few work-outs, which are held in the gym, serve to get the boys back into form and condition muscles softened by the long period of inactivity. Exercises, as well as stroking practice, are stoically endured. Once outside, and practicing everyday, the boys are soon ready for a winning season.

Like the boys, the girls also start practicing very early in the spring. Daily work-outs provide an excellent opportunity for the girls to improve their game. New members, after having learned the fundamentals during their first season, are ready to enter into regular competition the next year. Tentative team members play against each other, thus experiencing the pressures of a game. This gives them confidence and allows them to play their best in the interscholastic matches.

The baseball team, coached by Mr. Robert Bent, worked hard on afternoons practicing fielding, batting, and pitching. In the spring of 1960, the golf team completed its third undefeated season, having beaten Mansfield, Foxboro, Canton, Oliver Ames, Westwood, and Franklin. Using their own clubs and practicing during their own time, each boy has worked to improve his swing and gain control of the ball. With Mr. Downing as coach, the club has worked spiritedly at the Sharon Country Club, profiting from the expert advice generously offered by Mr. Kirouac. At the beginning of the season, the boys compete against each other to gain a rough idea of their abilities and to have the chance to experience competition. Thus, all the members are given the opportunity to participate in matches where good sportsmanship is promoted on the courses.

ORCHESTRA

The Sharon High School orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Philip Hoffman, is centered around the growing section of strings. The opportunity to read and perform is presented to the members in a varied program of symphonic and orchestral literature. Each year the members may audition for music scholarships which are available to all qualified students on the basis of talent and ability. Moreover, Sharon High School has often been represented at the Regional, State, and All-New England Festivals as well as at the Greater Boston Youth Symphony where the finest musicians and players combine to create one musical program.

Regional Drama Festival Contest

The Dramatics Club produces a number of excellent plays; and, for every play produced, a tremendous amount of behind-the-scenes activity is performed. The making of costumes requires time and skill; and the make-up, scenery, sound effects and lighting all require careful attention. Consequently, the membership of the Dramatics Club must include people of many different talents.

Every member strives to belong to the Thespian Society. The required ten points can be earned in a variety of ways, including acting, prompting, work on props, and student directing. This year the Massachusetts Drama Festival will be held in Sharon, and the club is very busy preparing for the several schools it will entertain.

Band Continues Long-Standing Service

Concert "A" is sounded; the instruments tune up; and rehearsal begins. For fifty minutes on Wednesday and Friday of each week, the musicians practice such pieces as "North Woods March", "Great Gate of Kiev", and "Thunderer". The band plays for the assemblies, marches in the parade on Memorial Day, and gives a spring concert. The proceeds from the latter are donated to the scholarship fund and contribute to some child's musical education.

is Great Success

After many weeks of fun-filled preparations, the stage was finally set for the Junior Prom. Carrying out the theme, "Harbor Lights," was a flashing beacon, as dancers imagined themselves on a pier with the beautiful fifty-foot harbor mural in the background. Miniature lighthouses provided memory-filled souvenirs for many.

Reigning as queen was Linda Loring, attended by the maids of honor, Pam Bailey and Joan Furber.

Climaxing this biggest event of the year was the stately Grand March, led by the class officers and Prom chairmen.

Although the social activities have varied with each season of the year, the academic life has remained constant. The students have maintained an outstanding scholastic record as indicated by the large number who have made Honor Roll and scored exceptionally high on such national tests as N.E.D.T., P.S.A.T. and N.M.S.Q.T.

For the month of January, the students enjoyed the rare privilege of having as their guest, Mr. Jalilolah Gharagozlu, from Tehran High School in Iran. They found him to be a man of great scholarly background, with experience as a teacher and school administrator, and a keen observer of the patterns of the American way of life. This privilege was made unusually beneficial by Mr. Gharagozlu's visits to and discussions with a large number of social studies classes. And this shared experience was made even more direct and profitable by the actual teaching done by this gentleman in a number of math classes, his field of specialization.

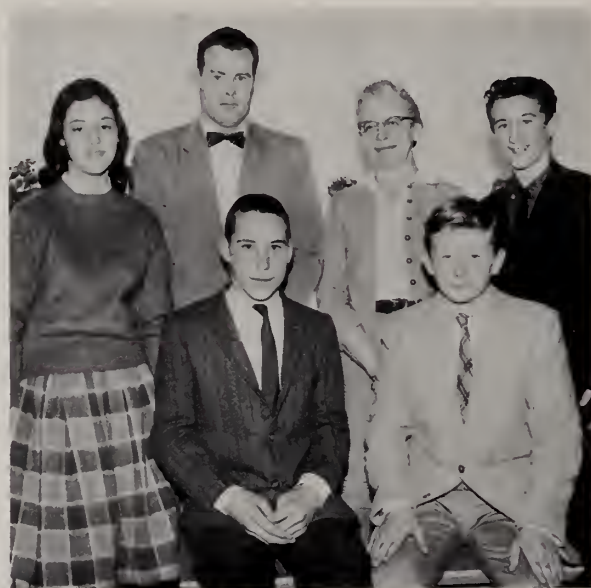

Although Mr. Gharagozlu came to the United States on the teacher exchange program, through the Fulbright Act and the Smith-Mundt Act, to learn directly about our way of life, the democratic type of government and education pattern, the visit was of mutual value; for to learn, at first hand, about the way of life, the government, and customs of another country was a very broadening experience for the students of Sharon High School.

This year's Freshman Class, with a total enrollment of 213, is the largest class in the history of Sharon High School. Since with increased enrollment goes curriculum expansion, this class will have the advantage of being offered a larger variety of courses than the classes in the past. For example, advanced courses in French, math, and science will be available in their junior and senior years.

The Freshman have established themselves in all phases of high school activity. They have taken part in athletics by participating in soccer, basketball and track. Their scholastic achievement has been commendable this year; and the highlight of their year, the Freshman Dance, exemplified their adeptness at planning and executing a successful social function. Their outstanding school spirit is evident at all school activities! From the record they have established in their first year at Sharon High, we feel sure they will be successful in their future years.

CLASS OF 1963

The great potential of the Sophomore Class is evident in all its undertakings. Already, many of its members have become leaders of the school. To interscholastic and intramural sports, they have made numerous contributions. Not only have they appeared on every team, but their spirited sideline support at all sports events has added considerably to the general spirit of the school. Socially, also, the class has contributed. For their main social affair, the Sophomore Hop, the students chose the theme "Campaign Capers" in keeping with the presidential campaign. Scholastically, the class has been outstanding, for, in addition to having a high percentage on the honor roll, particularly on high honors, it had among its members a great many recipients of N.E.D.T. letters of commendation.

The class of 1963 has set high standards for its future years at Sharon High School. Its achievements in the past two years have set a fine precedent for accomplishment.

The Class of 1962 has had the privilege of setting the precedent in many projects. They opened the 1960-61 social season with the "Dutch Delight"; they were the first to purchase the new standardized rings, bearing the school emblem; and they were the first class to hold the Junior Prom in the gymnasium.

The Junior Class is also in the front row scholastically, as shown by the large number on the honor roll, and by the fact that it had the distinction of having the largest number of people, in the three years in which the tests have been given, receive certificates for outstanding achievement in the N.E.D. tests. The class also can be proud of the number elected to the National Honor Society. It has been equally outstanding in the field of sports, for there it has been well represented by both girls and boys on the soccer, basketball, tennis, baseball and softball teams.

CLASS

"The highest distinction is service to others." The Class of 1961, which has always displayed fine school and class spirit, as well as outstanding scholastic ability, has, in the past year, continued to show interest in and concern for Sharon High School and its students. To pay tribute to the school's athletic program, the Seniors sponsored a Sports Dance at the close of the soccer season. They have provided the varsity and intramural teams with many of their leaders and they have served as officers of many clubs, putting their three years of experience to good use, as they assumed the many responsibilities which accompany positions of leadership. Thus, the Seniors have served as the backbone of the student body.

For their diligence and service, many have been recognized by the school individually and in groups, with honors, trophies, awards, and scholarships. The greatest single service performed by the combined efforts of many Seniors is the Marsengold, a complete record of the curricular and extra-curricular activities of the entire student body for the year 1960-61, a task of ever increasing difficulty with the rapid growth of the school.
